Just a quick note from the library...

Hello, library friends! It's such a busy week here at the Mercer Library that I wanted to send a quick note to remind you about all the fun things we have going on.

TONIGHT at 7:00 p.m. we have the latest event in the Northwoods Writers Series: a panel discussion on "What I Wish I Knew Before I Got Published" featuring some great local authors including quilter Jane Zillmer; Julie Buckles, author of Paddling to Winter; Chad McGrath, author of several trail guides; and fantasy fiction author Callie Bates.

THURSDAY at 6:00 p.m., stop by for a brief class that will answer the question, "What the heck is Geocaching?" If you want to give yourself plenty of excuses to get outside, enjoy challenging yourself to find new places and try new things, or are just looking for something new to do, then geocaching might be for you.

FRIDAY at 11:00 a.m., kids ages 1 to 100 are invited for a presentation by the Northwoods Wildlife Center on "Birds of Prey." Learn more about some of these amazing birds and how you, too, can be a hero for wildlife.

And last, but certainly not least, FRIDAY at 6:30 p.m. the whole community is invited for a Community Dance with Duck for the Oyster. Hear some great folk and traditional music played by a talented band, learn some new dances, and have some fun. This is our second year inviting Duck for the Oyster, and you don't want to miss it.

Of course, this is all on top of the regular things we do: share books, movies, puzzles, wifi and computer access, and much more. Hope to see you here at the library this week!
